The Cisneros family welcomes

you to this 1915 Packinghouse, which has been personally restored to house our eating establishment. Many of the antiques and items of interest have been obtained through the efforts of our family. We have challenged ourselves to provide an atmosphere of personal attention to you, our customers, and to the food we serve. Mexican food is an art, and to this we are dedicated. It is in keeping with such a philosophy that our family chef prepares all meals without sparing expense or compromising quality.

Highest quality foods are prepared in our kitchen by Johnny Cisneros, a third generation chef whose philosophy states "it is all about the food". His father, John Sr., developed the many recipes and Johnny prepares the food on a daily basis using only fresh produce, never bagged or pre-chopped, fresh beef and poultry, and the finest spices in order to realize their high standards of authentic Mexican food. Fresh chicken stock, prepared daily is used in various Los Vaquero recipes. The ultimate goal, to be assured that his own children, as well as his customers can dine here daily and consume the freshest food available! We are glad you are here and hope that our efforts coupled with a sincere desire to serve you make your experience with us pleasurable. Thank you for dining with us.
